The largest PRIZM segment with nearly 400,000 households, Down to Earth consists of older couples and families found in rural communities across the country. Eight out of ten adults are homeowners, typically owning single-detached homes. The majority of maintainers are over 55 years old. And most households earn average incomes from a mix of blue-collar and service sector jobs. With more than 80 percent of households third-plus-generation Canadians, they share a tradition-bound lifestyle: many spend their leisure time close to home and nature, enjoying sewing, knitting, bird-watching and snowmobiling. Their yards often have a small collection of trucks, cars, boats, ATVs and RVs. Not surprisingly, these older folks have traditional media patterns, favouring TV sports, country music radio, gardening magazines and community newspapers.

Scenic Retirement exemplifies one of Canada's dominant demographic trends, the aging population. With more than two-thirds of household maintainers over 55 years old, the segment features older married couples and singles living in the suburban neighbourhoods of smaller cities. Most members own single-detached houses and though only half are still in the labour force, incomes are above $100,000 from a mix of sectors. These households stay active by playing golf, fitness, walking and gardening. A night out may mean a trip to a casino or community theatre. And with most residents born well before the advent of the Internet, this segment is a bastion of traditional media.

The second most affluent rural segment, Country Traditions is a collection of small communities scattered across the eastern half of Canada. In this segment, middle-aged, and older couples and families work at blue-collar and service sector jobs. Most own a recently built, single-detached house, along with a large pickup for backcountry driving. With half the maintainers over 55, these third-plus-generation Canadians enjoy old-fashioned pursuits like gardening, boating, fishing, camping and swimming. Self-reliant, they like to work with their hands, doing ambitious remodeling projects as well as traditional home crafts. With their teenage children, they make a strong market for toys, pets and sporting goods; a big splurge is attending a professional baseball or basketball game. Vacations often involve a cottage stay.

Suburban Recliners is one of the older segments, a collection of suburban neighbourhoods surrounding smaller and midsize cities, including a number of retirement communities. Households typically contain empty-nesting couples and older singles living alone. While many are retired, those still working have jobs in accommodation and food services. Their low incomes go far in their neighbourhoods where single-detached houses and low-rise apartments are inexpensive. These third-plus-generation Canadians are energetic enough to enjoy active leisure pursuits. They like to attend community theatres, craft shows and music festivals. Occasionally, they'll spring for tickets to a figure skating event or auto race. Typically frugal shoppers, they join rewards programs, use digital coupons and frequent bulk food and second-hand clothing stores.

A quintessential portrait of Middle Canada, Happy Medium consists of couples and families living in the outer suburbs of large and midsize cities. The segment contains a mix of middle-income households of varied ages (maintainers range from 45 to over 75), educations (mostly high school or college) and family types (couples and families). Many households in this segment have deep roots: three-quarters of residents are third-plus-generation Canadians. Residents typically hold blue-collar or service sector jobs, and most own an older, single-detached house. With their unpretentious lifestyles, they enjoy home-based pursuits like woodworking, gardening and sewing, and outdoor activities such as canoeing, rowing and snowmobiling. To stretch their budgets, many shop at second-hand clothing and discount grocery stores.
